The book is divided into four sections, each of which focuses on a different aspect of women's leadership. The first section, "Women in Politics," features profiles of women who have served in high-level positions in government, including former presidents, governors, and ministers. The second section, "Women in Business," highlights women who have made their mark in the corporate world, founding and leading successful businesses. The third section, "Women in Education," showcases women who have dedicated their lives to educating others, including teachers, professors, and administrators. The fourth section, "Women in Healthcare," profiles women who have made significant contributions to the health and well-being of Nigerians, including doctors, nurses, and midwives.

The women featured in this book come from all walks of life, and their stories are as diverse as the country itself. But they all share a common thread: a commitment to making a difference in the world. They have overcome adversity, broken down barriers, and dedicated themselves to serving others.

This book is a must-read for anyone interested in the history of Nigeria, women's leadership, or simply inspiring stories of achievement. It is a powerful reminder of the transformative power of women and the essential role they play in building a better future for all.

Here are just a few of the remarkable women profiled in this book:

- Amina of Zazzau was a 16th-century queen who ruled the Hausa city-state of Zazzau (now Zaria) for over 30 years. She was a skilled warrior and a wise ruler, and her kingdom prospered under her leadership.
- Madam Tinubu was a 19th-century businesswoman and philanthropist who played a major role in the development of Lagos, Nigeria. She was known for her generosity and her commitment to helping the poor and disadvantaged.
- Funmilayo Ransome-Kuti was a 20th-century activist and politician who fought for women's rights and social justice. She was a co-founder of the Nigerian Women's Union and served as a delegate to the United Nations.

- Flora Azikiwe was the first lady of Nigeria from 1960 to 1966. She was an active supporter of her husband, President Nnamdi Azikiwe, and played a key role in promoting Nigerian culture and tradition.
- Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala is a renowned economist who has served as the managing director of the World Bank and the finance minister of Nigeria. She is a leading advocate for economic development in Africa.

These are just a few of the many inspiring women featured in this book. Their stories are a testament to the strength, resilience, and indomitable spirit of Nigerian women. They are role models for all of us, and their legacy will continue to inspire generations to come.
